The Compendium The Nuns' Analysis Part two The classes of offenses to which each rule belongs

When it comes to the offenses that are a result of consenting to physical contact, in how many of the seven classes of offenses are they found? They are found in five: they may be in the class of offenses entailing expulsion; they may be in the class of offenses entailing suspension; they may be in the class of serious offenses; they may be in the class of offenses entailing confession; they may be in the class of offenses of wrong conduct. ...

When it comes to the offenses that are a result of asking for curd and then eating it, in how many of the seven classes of offenses are they found? They are found in two: they may be in the class of offenses entailing acknowledgment; they may be in the class of offenses of wrong conduct.

The classes of offenses to which each rule belongs, the fourth, are finished.
